I wanted you to spell it out in the sky
I wanted you to part the sea
I wanted you to change this Cause I didn't want the change to start with me

Holding so tightly with both fists
Couldn't walk away from this
Cause living with my brokeness
Was easier than letting go
It was easier than letting go

But you came, you came anyway
And you took, you took my nothing
And gave everything to me instead
You gave everything to me instead

A love so sure no one can find
The love that changed my made up mind
A love so sure I've never known
But it's the one that I now call my own
It's the one that I now call my own

You came, You came anyway
You took, You took my nothing
And gave everything to me instead
You gave everything to me instead

Teach me about surrender
Show me how so I'll remember

You came, You came anyway
You took, you took my nothing
And gave everything to me instead
You gave everything to me instead
