Had my golf clubs on my shoulder when you saw me first today Wearin' my old army sweater that you thought you threw away
And when you saw me standin' there you shook your head and sighed
When you saw I'd bought a six pack, I thought you were gonna cry

Your man loves you, honey
I don't know what else to say
Your man loves you, honey
But you can't change my ways

Now before you say you're angry, you remember what I did Went to church with you last Sunday, took your mama and the kids
Sat right up and heard the preachin', even wore my Christmas tie
I'm not much on organ music, five stringed banjo's more my style

Your man loves you, honey
I don't know what else to say
Your man loves you, honey
But you can't change my ways

Oh you should've had a knight in armor and a castle fate
Not some restless cowboy faded jeans and shaggy head
I can't make it babe without and you know that it's true Keep me around for last, yeah I've been good for one or two

Your man loves you, honey
I don't know what else to say
Your man loves you, honey
But you can't change my ways
