Strange as it may be Sometimes life you know it ain't what it seems
It's like going to war to make peace
Sometimes life you know it ain't what it seems

Like the old man out there he lives on the streets And now he's asking for a dollar off everybody he meets
Never knew he used to be a milloinare on wall street
Sometimes life you know it ain't what it seems

Just like that plane you're late for leaving without you And now it changes all your plans and puts you in a bad mood
And the plane ends up crashing but at the time man you would not have a clue That being late would be so good and life is strange this true

So sometimes life you know it ain't what it seems Sometimes good presents come in bad wrapping Strange as it may be Sometimes bad presents come in good wrapping

Just like our Prime Minister with his new policy
Call the RFA he says he wants to save the old trees
You have a look at what he's come up with his business mates and you will see

That the man could not give a shit and some things ain't what they seem

Just like that environmental day sponsored by Shell So we can all endorse the killing and go, go straight to hell It's like Bunnings saying they're supporting your community
While they're chopping it right down and some things ain't what they seem

Oh I won't forget,
That everything, you know it's happening, happening

for a reason
So there ain't no need, no need in worrying...
Just get your job done.

Strange as it may be
Sometimes life you know it ain't what it seems
It's like going to war to make peace
Sometimes life you know it ain't what it seems
