

John K. Samson "Unearthly Refrain"

Visit "Unearthly Refrain" on MotoLyrics.com

Expectations loom and haunt me
With these questions I must choose
In our minds that youth formed with the Friction of opposing views
We're not spilled on grasping whims
Kick 'em in, so plain to see
Stressly fierce and yet unvented
Still I have no tragedy

To be soaring in un un un unearthly refrain
Fall face down in the mud for the tiny comment, rough
and bland
To be soaring in un un un unearthly refrain
Fall face down in the mud for the tiny comment, rough
and bland

Salted crackers, sun and water
Sprinting fast through unmarked snow
With all these thoughts of moving forward
That's okay, we eat too slow
Smell and taste and interaction
Watch me wonder, watch me strive Breathing deep the sun's first shadows
'Cause I live, 'cause I am alive

To be soaring in un un un unearthly refrain
Fall face down in the mud for the tiny comment, rough
and bland
To be soaring in un un un unearthly refrain
Fall face down in the mud for the tiny comment, rough
and bland
You're rough and bland

Visit John K. Samson page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.