

John Loudermilk

"97 Ways To Kill A Superhero"

Visit "97 Ways To Kill A Superhero" on MotoLyrics.com

I want to know where you laid your head last night You just couldn't keep him in your bloodstream or in your eyesight, behindsight It's glue that holds you so close to nowhere All the chemicals have been depleted you look so defeated my boy
And now you're so tired of life, your soul's been burnt by desire
When you laid down beside her inside her and you got so mad
You drove your car so fast that you smashed into heaven
And then you descended My boy, now you're so tired of life, your soul's been burnt by desire you laid down inside her, beside, you turn empty inside Your words return ever hollow...the truth's so hard to swallow
So hard now pull the babies from their beds Your teeth just rot inside your head, you're just some bones and skin that walk narrow Your path and staggering walk Born so alive, but raised to be dead

Visit John Loudermilk page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.