this will all make perfect sense someday
i'll be A-ok....
there's got to be a reason for the rain all my bills have all gotten paid i saved the bad, i broke the bank this could have been a slow song a laundry list of all the wrongs but at the end of the day this is my beautiful disaster piece I've made and it goes, and i quote, and i never would lie:

this will all make perfect sense someday
i'll be A-ok....
there's got to be a reason for the rain

i don't understand the numbers but my faith is in the math and the odds are all this pain will even out in the end and we'll look back and laugh and to all the hearts i've broken and the ones that once broke mine i've got suspicions all will be forgive in time all you gotta do is call them up and say:

this will all make perfect sense someday
i'll be A-ok....
there's got to be a reason for the rain and if it ever gets bad, i mean really bad i'll move to Nova Scotia and forget the life i had be up at nine each morning down by the shore collecting things that fell off boats in storms Okay, so i might never but it's nice to know the options there

the options there...

i'll be A-ok....

a reason for the rain, a reason for the rain the reason for the rain, for the rain and it doesnt help that i keep biting my lip in the same place
