Some things are so precious
They should never be sold,
They're for giving away.
You take all the stress
That this life unfolds,
All these dark and troubled days.

Still you can't give in,
Shake off those blues,
You know that's your way.
This life that you're living
Won't let you lose
Each crazy game you play.

Oh, you wait for the sun,
The new dawn starts
With that same sweet sadness
Filling up your heart,
And you wonder
Will it ever go away?

A story so precious
It can never be told
No words you can say.
Your heart turned to lead.
You thought it was gold,
It just melted away.
When memories come
Out of the blue,
You just fade them to grey.
You must carry on,
You know you can't choose,
No prayer you can pray.

Oh, you wait for the sun,
The new dawn starts
With that same sweet sadness,
Filling up your heart.
And you wonder
Will it ever go away?
Oh another night over,
The new day begins.

Remembering the dreams
That you left your love in
And you wonder
Can you face another another day,
One more day without love?
You know she's out of your sight,
But not out of your mind.
That kind of love is never easy to find.
You're not living a life of regret,
There are some things in this life
You just can't forget!

One more day,
One more day,
One more day,
One more day.
Still you can't give in,
Shake off those blues
Because that's your way.
This life that you're living
Won't let you lose
Each crazy, crazy game you play.

Oh, you wait for the sun,
The new dawn starts
With that same sweet sadness
Filling up your heart.
And you wonder
Will it ever go away?
Another night over,
The new day begins,
Remembering the dreams
That you left your love in
And you wonder
Can you face another another day,
One more day without love?
One more day.
One more day.
Can you face another day,
One more day.
Oh baby that love
One more day.
One more day.
One more day without your love
One more day.
One more day.
One more day.
One more lonely, lonely day.
One more day.
One more day without your love
