In a corner I tried to hide, the fear I couldn't help but feel I closed my eyes and tried to escape pretending none of this was real

I dreamed of daisies and of golden fields as I soared High above the ground Almost forgot the world I left behind, but I woke hard when I heard the sound

Another one taken tonight, that's all she said Another one taken tonight and I don't know how...but it's all over now

I couldn't quite remember how it all began it seemed so long ago
As if the past were just some forgotten dream now today is all I know

Why us? Why them? Why now? What did we do so wrong?
And what could you do to justify a hate that was so strong?

Another one taken tonight, that's all she said
Another one taken tonight and I don't know how...but
it's all over now
