Out in an English harbor waits an old but rugged ship
Waiting for a crew of men so she can make her trip Out searching was the best gang that everyone knew well
A-searchin' the streets & gutters so the Defiant could set sail

The captain ordered to see the men to pick them for his crew Called for headstruck daughters but for all the good men too
Out to sail this morning, Italy was her destiny
To escort back a convoy that was helpless on the sea

CHORUS:

The HMS Defiant sailed to live up to her name There was no word of mutiny aboard, but who was there to blame?

The Defiant reached its destiny, no timber ships in sight
So returning home, the French approached; the Defiant had to fight
She captured herself a vessel with a chest of jewels aboard
Along with the Frenchmen who advised Napoleon under his sword

With Captain Culvert wounded was there not a man to care
The first lieutenant took command with mutiny in the air
The breakout be with 2 men named Evans & Vazar Commanded the mutineers to take the ship where they desired

(chorus)

The English were surrounded by the French who came to fight With love for England the mutineers turned to fight with all their might

The Defiant walked through through fire & hell to save the Admiral Fleet
A pardon keepin' the mutineers from making the French retreat

(repeat & fade):
The HMS Defiant sailed to live up to her name
The word of mutiny now was gone & no man was to blame
