Put the bottle on the table let it stay there till I'm unable

To see your face in every place that I go

I've been sitting here too long just remembering that you are gone

One more drink of wine and if you're still on my mind

One drink just one more and then another

I'll keep drinking it won't matter I'll just remember that I once had

I don't know why I sat and cry every day

I've been trying to forget but I haven't stopped it yet

One more drink of wine and if you're still on my mind

One drink just one more and then another
