Well, a heart don't need eyes to see
When it's over it don't have to be told
No, a heart don't need arms to feel it
Just withers and dies from the cold.

Well, I woke up this morning and found your note
But I already knew what it said
'Cause there's been no love in this house for so long now
And what else could you do when love is dead.

And a heart don't need eyes to see
When it's over it don't have to be told
No, a heart don't need arms to feel it
Just withers and dies from the cold.

No, a heart don't need eyes to see
Just withers and dies from the cold.

Yes, it just withers and dies from the cold...
