(verse 1)

A Babies born, Momma cries she sees a glance of his daddy there in his eyes take him home and watch him sleep, stand and wonder who he's gonna be then its Tonka trucks and baseball gloves, then his first kiss and his first love oh the innocence, just don't last our dreams in our future go by so fast,

(chorus)

Mountains move, rivers run, shadows fall with the setting sun,
thunder rolls and lighting strikes the darkness covers
and swallows up the light... and time flies,

(verse2)

An old man, sits alone trying hard to remember but his memories gone up on the wall dressed up inside a frame hangs up a frame a couple on there wedding day, see through his eyes the world looks gray his life was full of color but colors fade away

(chorus)

Mountains move, rivers run, shadows fall with the
setting sun,
swallows up the light... and time flies,

(Bridge)

We all laugh and we all cry we all live and we all die but through it all and in between

Time flies (x 4)
