A baby's born, a mama cries
She sees a glimpse of his daddy
There in his eyes
They take him home
And watch him sleep
Stand and wonder who he's gonna be
Then it's Tonka Trucks and baseball gloves
Then his first kiss, and his first love
Ohhh, the innocence just don't last
Our dreams and our future go bye so fast

CHORUS:

Mountains move, rivers run
Shadows fall with the setting sun
The thunder rolls, the lightning strikes
The darkness covers the swallows of the light
Timeflies

An old man, sits alone
Trying hard to remember but his memory's gone
Upon the wall, trapped under a blissful side of things
Hangs a picture of a couple on their Wedding Day
See through his eyes, the world looks grey
His life was full of color, but colors fade away

CHORUS

We all laugh and we all cry
We all live and we all die
But through it all and in between
Timeflies (4x)
