You wanted to see
All that I could be
In in your life, your life
What if I fail though,
I forget all the details
On what's right, what's right

I'm throwing a line, asking for help
This is more than I thought
I think to myself
That living in love
is trusting above
myself

You gave me your heart
What a place to start
All those empty scars and all those cold remarks We're always promising that honesty would let us be inside each other's minds

I'm throwing a line, asking for help
This is more than I thought
I think to myself
That living in love
Is trusting above myself
Everyday I'm constantly trying to sacrifice Cause I know despite me that living in love is trusting above
Myself

We wanted to feel with our hands something real
But we just can't seem to stop being what we're not
And fear you know it holds so tight Makes me feel I've got no right to speak what I really think
