(Jon Randall)

I shouldn't do this was the last thing I heard me say
When I bought her champagne and hid my wedding ring
One drink led to another and another to a kiss
And I told myself I shouldn't do this

I shouldn't do this was the last thing I heard me say
When I gave her a ride 'cause she'd had too much to drink
She gave herself so freely
I could not resist
And I told myself I shouldn't do this

(CHORUS)

How I wish that I had listened to that little voice inside Say you're gonna lose your woman, man have you lost your mind
And that hold got a little deeper as the lies fell off my lips
And I told myself I shouldn't do this

I shouldn't do this was the last thing I heard me say
When I rolled through the front door coming home way too late
Well I stumbled through excuses but the truth is hard to twist
And I told myself I shouldn't do this

(REPEAT CHORUS)

I shouldn't do this was the last thing I heard me say
