The sky keeps falling down on me
And I'm still trying to get up and leave
So I'll keep running in circles and squares
You keep walking away
Away

We're all tied up like a knot in a string
A ring on a finger, or a vine around a twig
And like the sky in the morning, we're feeling brand new
We do this everyday

The sky keeps falling down on me
I'm still trying to get back on my feet
I tried to tell you but you wouldn't believe
The sky keeps falling down on me

Girl, you've got such pretty eyes
But you don't see what I see

Like a shell found by the ocean
That still sounds like the sea
You're nothing but an echo of something that was deep
We might be tied up like a knot in a string
I just found some scissors and I'm forgetting everything

The sky keeps falling down on me
I'm still trying to get back on my feet
I tried to tell you but you wouldn't believe
The sky keeps falling down on me

Girl, you've got such pretty eyes
But you don't see what I see
You don't see what I see

The sky keeps falling down on me
I'm still trying to get back on my feet
I tried to tell you but you wouldn't believe,
The sky keeps falling down
