There's a rainbow on your red bicycle
And I see it in your eyes
You wipe your wet nose with your icicle sleeves
And you fold it twice

Your eyes : In the middle of the road
Your eyes : It's the same story

You see they're drowning now
You see they're all done
You see they're drowning now
You see there are enough tears

You fall from a stone and I kiss ripe lips
And I follow you home
You wipe tears away with your icicle sleeves
And I say good night

Your eyes : They're closing in the night
Your eyes : It's the same story

You see they're drowning now
You see they're all done
You see they're drowning now
You see there are enough tears

I wonder if you are the same without me
I wonder if you are alive since they said they drowned
the sound

You should go and shout it out
You should go and change their views

You should go and shout it out
You should go and change their views

You should go and change their views
