I watched you pour your tears into my cup of coffee
I heard you burn your fears on your lounge curtains
For the world to see
But you say that you could never love me
You say that sort of thing only happens on TV.
Well did you feel above the world
As you sat on the roof - above the trees
And watched the people shrivel in size
Get on with their lives, in focus it seems
But you say that's only how it appears to be
You say that's not right for them and it sure ain't right for me
Baby won't you go and spin me one more crock of shit
That I can wear to school this summer
Tears fall from your lizard eyes - and crocodile you waste my time
But I can't break this spell I'm under.
So I'll just go and throw my tears like pebbles down a wishing well
They're just a bunch of useless fears
And stupid values I could sell
Maybe my hearts like Pandoras Box as well

Honey child ride the sea
With no anchor - you'll drift endlessly
I guess that's just the way you want to be
But you're the only one who really believes you're free.
