I caught the sun rising over the sky,
What, it set the tone for the day,
Cause it came up,
Brought the power,
Shone it down in tear,
With precision in every ray.

I went walking,
Through Central Park with everyone around me (I still can't help but miss you)
There's a sea of yellow cabs,
But only one guy drives me mad,
And I can't see me goin' nowhere without you

Everywhere I look is a special place,
I can feel those memories I can see your face,
It was on these streets that my dreams came true,
Yes I'm walking in New York and it reminds me of you,
Yes, I'm walk-walk-walking in New York,
And I'm doing all the things that we used to do,
'Cause I am walk-walk-walking in New York,
Yes I'm walking in New York and it reminds me of you.

I caught the A-train off the West-Side to Broadway,
Just like we did every Sunday,
It's kinda funny, kinda rare to feel alone at Times
Square,
But my heart is full anyway,

I was talking,
To my friends about all the good times (When you feel like you stood up)
You threw that snowball at my face,
By that tree at Rockefeller,
Posing just like when it's making me smile,

Everywhere I look is a special place,
I can feel those memories I can see your face,
It was on these streets that my dreams came true,
Yes I'm walking in New York and it reminds me of you,
Yes, I'm walk-walk-walking in New York,

And I'm doing all the things that we used to do,
'Cause I am walk-walk-walking in New York,
Yes I'm walking in New York and it reminds me of you.

I won't forget all the times we share,
Even when we'll cry, I'll take you everywhere,
And I'm waiting for the day, I see you again,
So we can walk in New York like we did back then.

Take me to the East-Side,
West-Side,
Brooklyn Bridge and subway ride,
Coney Island,
Times and Square,
I can see you everywhere.

Everywhere I look is a special place,
I can feel those memories I can see your face,
It was on these streets that my dreams came true,
Yes I'm walking in New York and it reminds me of you,
Yes, I'm walk-walk-walking in New York,
And I'm doing all the things that we used to do,
'Cause I am walk-walk-walking in New York,
Yes I'm walking in New York and it reminds me of you.
