It's pouring outside and my roof is leaking
I just let the raindrops bleed out the ink
From my notebook sheets and

Today is a Thursday and then it's three days late
I marked on the calendar and circled today's date
This is the last straw, this isn't life here
I'm packing my dreams up and leaving my nightmares

And they say, go west till you feel the sunset
And there you're becoming a star
So I traded my skinny jeans for dreams and Limousines
And I'm gone

I'll send you a postcard saying I'm alright
I'll write on the back that I'm in love with life and
And sign my name in the stars
My radio's turned up, a full tank in my car

And I promise we'll be together
I'll never say never, I'll always remember, goodbye
'Cause I gotta go, oh, oh, oh
I'll send you a postcard

Smashing on the gas, 95 on the highway
Got about a thousand more miles to go
I might make it by Friday

The road's never ending, I'm never so patient
The choice is now all mine for my destination

They ask why I'm rushing, my dreams are waiting
So fasten your seat belt 'cause I'm gonna make it

And they say, go west till you feel the sunset
And there you're becoming a star
So I traded my skinny jeans for dreams and Limousines
And I'm gone

I'll send you a postcard saying I'm alright

I'll write on the back that I'm in love with life and
And sign my name in the stars
My radio's turned up, a full tank in my car

And I'll promise we'll be together
I'll never say never, I'll always remember, goodbye
'Cause I gotta go, oh, oh, oh
I'll send you a postcard, yeah, I'll send you a postcard, yeah

To whom it may concern, whoever this gets to
There's no looking back, I took off my rear view
Got my hopes on the passenger side
There's only room for two

And I'll, I'll send you a postcard saying I'm all right
I'll write on the back that I'm in love with life
And sign my name in the stars
My radio's turned up, a full tank in my car

And I promise we'll be together
I'll never say never, I'll always remember, goodbye
'Cause I gotta go, ho, oh, oh
I'll send you a postcard
