There are never any times
When I'm not walking on eggshells again
I try not to cross the line
But I haven't found where it is just yet
You're a train wreck of emotions
Lost inside an ocean
Of words you never want to hear

I guess you must be black and blue
Damaged, broken, then just glued
Anything else would split in two
As breakable as you
There are pictures in your eyes
With everything laid out for me
And I can't help but find
Things I never wanted to see
And I hate to just desert you
But I don't deserve to Live with every piece of your past this way
I guess you must be black and blue
Damaged, broken, then just glued
Anything else would split in two
As breakable as you

Your broken smile and those sweet, sad eyes
Fooled me into watching you cry

Well now I know you're black and blue
Beyond repair, there's nothing I can do
So I guess our time is through
Cause now I'm broken too
I can be as breakable as you
