(Carly Simon)

It happens everyday
Two lovers with the best intentions to stay Together they decide to separate
Just how it happens neither is certain
But it happens everyday
It happens everyday
After you break up
You say these words to your friends:
"How could I have loved that boy?
He was so bad to me in the end?
Well, you make him a liar
turn him into a robber
Well, it happens everyday.

But I don't regret that I loved you
How I loved you I will never forget
And in time I'll look back and remember
The boy that I knew when we first met.
Still it happens everyday
Two lovers turn and twist their love into hate
But am I so different
>From those young girls you used to date?
You used to adore me
You used to adore me
Still it happens everyday
