There's so many people at the station waiting for a train
To take them on some long journey far far away There's a boy with a smile thinking about Marie 'Cause he caught her in the shower last night accidentally
He caught her in the shower last night accidentally.

There's a woman with a baby trying to make it stop crying
So she's bribing with a lemon lollypop
There's a boy with a girlfriend, she's in way too far 'Cause I saw him looking at another womans heart
I saw him looking at another womans heart.

And people say that I'm just being lazy
I've got the dreams but don't know where to go They think if I could choose to live here at the sation I would.

There's a man with a bald patch at the back of his head His heart is getting sleepy and he's watching where he treads

A group of sweaty girls are standing in a line Naivity exploding as he gives them all the eye,
Naivity exploding as he gives them all the eye.

There's a lady with a basket full of all her eggs She's counted them too quickly, she'll wake up and they'll be dead
The boy whos lost his marbles has found them down the drain
The slit's too thin to get them so he'll have to start again
The slit's too thin to get them so he'll have to start again.

And people say that I'm just being lazy
I've got the dreams but don't know where to go They think if I could choose to live here at the sation, to live hear at the station

Oh, you think if I could choose to live here at the station I would.
