I met you yesterday
set out on that train to bring you in am i disposed
am i derailed
so far from

I met you yesterday
set out on that train to bring you in
and what I've been so long
so much
the glory rests and rides apart from where we are held off in santa fe alone sometimes
we always will become alive
feel like letting go to rise

held up in santa fe
fell out on my back

i broke my cool
for always had
and always would
to never end
sometime we get so far
we live through
woke up in Santa Fe
found i became so less of heart feeling so wrong
to never let go of what you need at all

cut my hands
to see if i still bleed
she ran away
to never be seen again at all my friend you're not about to go alone
