Was I carried on your shoulder
And did I laugh along the way
Was I having me a grand time
And was it just today
Or was I carried to the block of burden square
Where the chimes are always chimeless
There's no hope of leaving there
I use my instinct when I visit as a man
But I still don't understand
Me

Did I do it all like one two three and did I make it tough
Did I make the neighbors laugh each time
And was it quite enough
Or was I buried in the block of burden square
Where the chimes are always chimeless
There's no hope of leaving there
I use my instinct what I visit as a man
But I still don't understand
