And so life continues
As matter does not disappear
And you are not the issue
In this the universal sphere

So turn off the light
Let night embrace and take you in
Sleep within its wisdom and

Dreams are not lost
They merely fall beneath the ashes
Of what is left to the soul
From where it starts, to where it catches

And you must remember me
A plea from one who must be kept
Like some vacant thought
We fear to find we can't forget

And you have become
The instant you believe you have
Memories our aftermath

Dreams are not lost
They merely fall beneath the ashes
Of what is left to the soul
From where it starts, to where it catches
And this is our time until it passes

You sleep deeper than I do
I keep thinking about you
Eyes tired and the night is impatient
It takes me under and I change the station

It takes me under and I change the station
It takes me under and I change the station
Though they may fade into the everyday

Dreams are not lost
They merely fall beneath the ashes
Of what is left to the soul
From where it starts, to where it catches

And this is our time until it passes

Turn off the light
Let night embrace and take you in
Sleep within its wisdom and

Dreams are not lost
They merely fall beneath the ashes
Of what is left to the soul
From where it starts, to where it catches
And this is our time until it passes

And this is our time until it passes
