The reflection off the silver lining
Clouds her eyes and keeps her finding
Reasons for living and reasons for dying
Without ever wondering why

A better world's on his horizon
Tomorrow's always another try
The miles in between, the hours spent in vain
Never cross his mind

Their hearts will believe anything they want to feel
It's better to know you have nothing at all
Than to create what's not real

'Cause everything we hold dear is gonna be
The reason for our misery
Time heals nothing by itself. The pain still hangs
So behind the lenses drown your fears and sing
