We are the sunrise, we stake no claims We're independent, we make up our own names
We wave no flags, we were born to carry rags
But nobody dies when they're playing our games

Your world's gone crazy
You think we're lazy but we're not,
No, we're not

We're just too young to care for it, too young to take it
so hard
Too young to give a shit about the wars you have fought
Why don't you bury it, we're not gonna carry it at all We're too young
We're too young
We're too... young

We are the lovers trapped between your walls Break down the doors but still you hear us call We wave no flags, we were born to break your laws
And we're steppin' out on the breakin' of dawn

Your world is clueless, you think we're useless when we're not
No, we're not

We're just too young to care for it, too young to take it
so hard
Too young to give a shit about the wars you have fought
Why don't you bury it, we're not gonna carry it at all

Maybe we could just be flowers in another world [x2]

Your world's gone crazy, you think we're lazy but we're not, we're not
And are you so f*cking clueless to think we're useless when we're not

We're just too young to care for it, too young to take it

so hard
Too young to give a shit, too young to fight in your war
Why don't you bury it, we're not gonna carry it at all Why don't they bury you, we're not gonna carry you at all
We're too young
We're too... young
Young
