I travelled across the edges of my soul, add it doesn't seem any better when I cross the border The world falls to piece but every Sunset is the rebirth of a new experience.
I often felt this sorrow, I often stand alone, dipping and diving to see the bottom but where are the lines that divine...
Confidential sins have already taken my so called freedom and every choice I made framed my so called future.
I'm no longer care about the way I gone, burning like a fire to smother in the end, wasting time while I'm expecting death.
