The fire in your eyes, the passion of your scorn is feigned to scare.
Embraced by your presence not able to control my self-defence.
I started to despair, my dedication 's just about to sink
My quest for happiness prevented by your love!
You're leading me to something I could only forsake.
An express rejection is more than I could ever take.

Everytime that I am faced the truth in you
I ask my self why I still do - what kills me!

And I will ever beg for you.
My live, I live it just for you.
I know, that my struggle was enough
When I could reattain your love!
