Back into your own submission
Back inside your lonely cell
Diseased by your own admission
Holding secrets you can't tell

And who cares if you live or die
And no one asks you
Why you cannot speak
A split decision, intermission

Back into your own submission
Who knows why it's been so long
Consumer gods and fashion victims
Ribbons round the walking bombs

And who cares if you live or die
And no one asks you
Why you cannot speak
A split decision, intermission
You could use intermission

Recurring images
Fast forward stalactite of love
If you take intermission
Limits the sky above
Where the soul survivors are flying

And who cares if you live or die
And no one asks you
Why you cannot speak
You could use intermission

Where every car's a silver car
And every man a pig, people got to listen
'Cause you're litmus when you're dead
Oh, so easy to forget

In this life you haven't lived yet
And though you may have missed your wave
I hope you get it today
Don't fall away
