Little girl, just keep on waiting
For that man to give you a live
You keep on hoping
So this prince can save you
Keep on dreaming his scandalous lie
For your love is he the hero
Does he know that you begging him please
Where angles dare, the devil 's fill that need
In your despair does he get up to leave

At the start of his goodbye
Do you ever realize
That you never get the chance
All you get is lullabies
When smoke begins to fade
And you standing face to face
Does he kiss you in the way to say
You're the other woman, the other woman

Way that dress, the one you rely on (mmmmm)
Slip up high, that shows off your wares
And when he's arriving give him that invitation
Keep on wishing
On his dollars and cares
For your love he is your hero, yes
Even do, you are begging him, please, please
Woman I'm scarred you risks are never-ending
And don't you pretend
You don't live what you dream

At the start of his goodbyes
Do you ever realize
That you never get the chance
All you get is lullabies
When smoke begins to fade
And you standing face to face
Does he kiss you in the way to say
You're the other woman, the other woman
You always be the other woman
You always be the other woman

Baby
Trust me,
I've been there before
You don't Know him
I know him more

At the start of his goodbye
Do you ever realize
That you never get the chance
All you get is lullabies
When smoke begins to fade
And you standing face to face
Does he kiss you in the way to say
You're the other woman, the other woman
