(Carole Bayer Sager/Marvin Hamlisch)
Can't take no more of your sweet alibis
Yesterday's lies
Friendless goodbyes
I've had my fill of sweet alibis
When I look in your eyes
It's driving me crazy

Four in the morning and I hear you coming in
I'm trying to pretend
I don't know where you've been
How could the fire suddenly go bad
Or am I losing something I never had

Each night I lay so cold in your arms
Telling myself
You still love me
And every day gets harder to hide
Something has died
And it's driving me crazy
Oo, driving me crazy
Oo, driving me crazy
And though I know I'd be better alone
I just can't let go
Of the best love I've known
And could I live without your sweet alibis
Don't look in my eyes
You're driving me crazy
Oo, driving me crazy
Oo, driving me crazy
