Anytime you want my love
You know you've got it right there in the palm of your hand
So while you're walking unaware
I know there a memory baby, somewhere in there
Remember that I don't give up
No, no I don't give up when my heart's on the line

Let's break it down and start again
This time with walls that bend
'Cause pretending we're not friends is only a lie

You shake it like a little girl
Walking through the city with your plastic pearls
And I just can't believe how Those falling stars and singles bars are part of your world now
Running from the hurt
You put your feet in the dirt of the firing line

Let's break it down and start again
This time with walls that bend
'Cause pretending we're not friends is only a lie

We'll work it out, to the end
And just like it began
I know that we can mend two bad broken hearts
Only your love can break down my pride
So if you want to wait forever, you can do it girl
But there's not a lot of heaven here without you in my world

Let's break it down and start again
This time with walls that bend
Pretending it's only a lie
