"Haunt In The Dark"

Buy a new face from the haughty fraud
Get some more drugs to keep me high
If something happens and it changes the history
I won't give a fuck and keep my world together
Use my luck for me till it holds out
Before they give me terrible punishments

The sound of a bell for the peace of the world
But a slough of myself still haunts in the dark

You forget sleeping, what are you looking for?
I don't wanna tell you, no, I can't tell
The guy hates the power who treats food without care
He says "I need a quiet sunday afternoon"

The sound of a bell for the peace of the world

The meaning of the freedom is floating in the dark
The sound of a bell for the peace of the world
What left behind is the struggle for the life

Another guy hates the power also said such things
"What I need are food, job and fuckin money"
Left the words and he was drowned in the void
Everything fell into the eternal rest
Struggle against something live my life again
You really need the fucking answers

But my soul's here, not gone into the void
Haunting in the dark finding up the truth
The sound of a bell for the peace of the world
But a slough of myself still haunts in the dark

Being cornered my fear and contradiction are
In a bottom of the deep sea
I thought I sank 'em
I don't know why
But they are coming up to the other ground

Break loose no, you can't escape from here
Fades away the sound of a bell fades away
