I knew I was being careless it felt like a dream I believed that you could take it and so it seemed but I'm feeling kind of helpless just looking at you your eyes brimming with pain and nothing I can do cause it too late now I felt your fingers feigned affection

And it's all my fault
no reason to turn weak
but I ruined it all
It dawned on me much too late just one careless sunset was my mistake
and its all my, all my fault

We've being sitting here for hours you're trying so hard to forgive me every look breaking my heart and we're trying not to notice that everything's changed the worst is yet to come and I'm the one to blame and its too late now I've felt your fingers feigned affection

I wish it would blow over and I could lay here by your side and I wish, I could undo it and we could feel that it's alright but it's too late now it's just too late now

that you can't love me anymore
