

Judith Owen "Message From Heaven"

Visit "Message From Heaven" on MotoLyrics.com

The rules have changed
I'm not the same girl as I used to be
And it's getting better to be stronger
And now
The day has died
I wore my hatred like a badge of pride
So, pinch me if I'm dreaming.

And when I saw her, I knew her
I watched her as she pushed the plate away
Should I save her?
Should I get down on my knees and pray?

Free her today
Send her a message from Heaven
She's got so much to say
And she's beautiful.

Free her today
Send her a message from Heaven
Before she throws it all away
Tell her she's beautiful.

It's the cruelest thing
You can't see even for all of your shame
And it's just so damn hard getting stronger
But I know now
There's a place inside
And it holds the flame that never ever dies
The longer it burns, the brighter it shines.

When I saw her, I knew her
I understood the hateful things she'd seen
And I spoke to her
I got down on my knees and prayed for her life.

Free her today
Send her a message from Heaven
She's got so much to say
And she's beautiful.

Free her today

Send her a message from Heaven
Before she throws it all away
Tell her she's beautiful.

You know her name
Yes indeed, you know her name
(Yes indeed)
Sister, if you've been where I've been
You know her name.

Free her today
Send her a message from Heaven
She's got so much to say
And she's beautiful.

Free her today
Send her a message from Heaven
Before she throws it all away
Tell her she's beautiful.

Tell her tell her...
Free her
Send her a message from Heaven
Free her
Send her a message from Heaven...

Visit Judith Owen page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.