Looking at me saying I'm so bad
A real job something that you've never had Spreading the hate is what you enjoy
You get what you want it keeps you employed
Something in you you'll always deny
That makes you this way it's all just a lie
Save the world and help the people
They follow With foolish pride Convinced you weren't corrupted you took them for a ride
Placing the blame makes money for you
In a church or a book these leaders are fools
A good thing for you gets everyone mad
It makes up for something you never had
You say you know your enemy more so than you think
But something non related has pushed you to the brink
