"Say When"

Expensive tickets to a crowded place
Someone who you can't relate to calls your name
Fires up the after party much too late
The DJ finished spinning all the songs you hate

And the people that you love are always hating on the people that you love
Everyone against each other, each one against the other
I'm feeling sick, like the nightmare's never-ending
I'm sick of all the small talk if you're sick of pretending

You can't hear them speaking
Just the rhythm of your breathing

If you've had enough say when, say when
If you've had enough say when
If you've had enough say when, say when
If you've had enough say when

Dumb horns blasting in the techno break
Hiding in the corner by the wedding cake
Image of your face distorting on the plate
Congratulations on your ugly dinner date

And the people that you love are always hating on the people that you love
Everyone against each other, each one against the other
I'm feeling sick, like the nightmare's never-ending
I'm sick of all the small talk if you're sick of pretending

You can't hear them speaking
Just the speakers over-heating

If you've had enough say when, say when
If you've had enough say when
If you've had enough say when, say when
If you've had enough say when

Don't say when til you've tried it

Don't say uncle unless you don't like it Because every good reason you've had so far for leaving is
Just another weakness that brings you closer to me
Closer to me

Expensive tickets to a crowded place
Someone who you can't relate to calls your name
Fires up the after party much too late
The DJ finished spinning all the songs you hate

Say when
Say when
