Invisible war, seems we're waging an invisible war
Strained manoeuvres, keeping silent score
In this invisible war
Every day I seem to lose you more
Both wishing it was like before
In this invisible war

Talk about a fine line between love and hate
We've lost more than our direction of fate
Talk about a fine line between lovers and friends We've never been lovers and now we're not even friends

In this invisible war, seems we're waging an invisible
war
Every day I seem to lose you more
In this invisible war

Wounded deeply the scar is here to stay
Opening up at all the little things I do and say
You always want things to be as before

So I make you angry and you bleed a little more

In this invisible war, seems we're waging an invisible
war
Every day I seem to lose you more
In this invisible war

Want to go away
I still love you
Got to go away
I always love you
Got to be away
Time heals all wounds
Invisible war
