I've gotten used, to being introduced Hello, what's your name, how are you They see my smile, my laugh and the hurt behind my eyes
Loss is not so easily disguised

I'll try my best to keep on with my sunny disposition
But I close my eyes and end up remunising So save me from waking up tonight, save me from waking up tonight
'Cause I toss, and I turn and it doesn't feel right Save me from waking up tonight

Left to my own devices
I'd stay up till 3 am Spend the whole day barely awake, and then do it all again
'Cause my dreams are filled with pleasant trees that make me think your here with me They won't let my poor heart mend

I have tried my darnedest to continue smiling wide
But I miss you and that's something I can't hide

So save me from waking up tonight, please save me
from waking up tonight
I thought I was fine, but it looks as if I might not make it through the night
So save me from waking up tonight, please save me
from waking up tonight
'Cause I toss and I turn and it doesn't feel right Please save me from waking up tonight
