I received a taste of you on my tongue it made me believe you'd be some fun a promise is made before it is done though we often find promise where there is none just because i want to doesn't mean i want you to come in just because i had you doesn't mean i have to in the end just because i could now doesn't mean i would bow to a distant fantasy and just because i'd love to doesn't mean i love you canyons lie between your ego screams with indignation how dare i tease you with no hesitation how dare you assume i'm for the taking just mistaking i have traded in my good taste for intoxication

mean i love you

did you really think you'd make me come?
did you really think you'd make me come undone?
