little girl
watching over daddy's farm from your spot in the old oak tree

little girl
in your spot that overlooks all the flowing grains of grass and harmonies

but where has papa gone? where has papa gone?
to the coast

TV dinners
magazines
he's gonna make it on the scene a new Mercedes with a financed lease

a little girl
to sow the garden
while he's chasing down his dreams a little late under those faithful trees but little sally's stressed because she can't quite reach the dresser drawers or cabinets

little girl
in your spot that overlooks
she sees a thick rain and an overflowing crick

man the latches
ground the floor
the wind is knocking at her door but she's too little for that latching job to work and out the door she flies but the wind won't stain her eyes or the collars of her dress

she's with the rest
of them
she's with the rest
of them

now where has sally gone?
where has sally gone?

just in a different way
to the coast
over the Atlantic bay
to the coast
she helps the sun each day shine over you
