I would walk with a hand at your back

And you'd walk with your hand in my back pocket

And I would joke that you would steal my wallet

And you would laugh and you'd say, "No I wouldn't!"

And we could spend our hearts all over this town for nothing

Oh we could spend our hearts all over this town for
nothing

We would stop for a drink later after we were tired of moving

And you would know someone in that tavern

Who could maybe tell us of this coming winter

And we could spill our wine all over this town for
nothing

Oh we could spill all over this town for nothing

/>Well maybe when we thought that it'd become quite easy

I would make a joke that was not funny

But sincerely quite offensive from the times when I was reckless

And we could scream our lungs out in this town for
nothing

Oh we could scream our lungs out in this town for
nothing

Well maybe I should of set my goals much further

Than the likes of northern stars which do burn for just one night

Maybe I should have mentioned that I was not built for this kind of loving

But we're gonna chase each other around this town for
nothing

Oh we're gonna chase each other around this town for nothing
