She smiles like the stars and her hair is raven she's a beautiful angel sent from heaven she shines like a light she fractures the night and this barroom's alright maggie holds her mystery deep inside her heart she'll keep the secret memories and dance in the dark you can tell her your longings she will love it if you ask of the past she won't speak of it she never will show and you never will know of the child long ago

she'll keep the secret memories and dance in the dark

she can trace down her soul in the footprints of trouble when she drank sorrow right out of the bottle through the smoke and the years come some old souvenirs
just a little girl's tears
