As I recall the days gone by, thoughts of you unwind
There is no use convincing myself that yesterday is gone
And anything, I say or do, there is something that makes me think of you Seasons will fade away, but the memory will remain...
When I go back to places we've been, either just unwind
Then for a while, I seem to believe that you are by my side
And anywhere, I turn to go, there is something that makes me think of you
Time will fade away, but the memory will remain...
Faces, places, people remind me of you...
Morning, noon and night that I think of you When I go back to places we've been, either just
Then for a while, I seem to believe that you are by my
And anywhere, I turn to go, there is something that
makes me think of you
Time will fade away, but the memory will remain...
Your memory will remain...
Your memory will remain...
