You say I'm your one and only
Well those words sound nice
How come I feel so lonely
Every other night
Baby what you say ain't what you always do
Talkin I'm a lot to myself these days
I might as well be living on the moon

A few more miles wouldn't make any difference
The world would just keep spinning
And I'd still be waiting on you
And every other thing you put me through
For as much as I see you baby
I might as well be living on the moon

When I want to hear your voice
I just push play
The answering machine keep track of your promises everyday
Cause every once and awhile one of them comes true
But I've been talking a lot to myself these days

A few more miles wouldn't make any difference
The world would just keep spinning
And I'd still be waiting on you
And every other thing you put me through
For as much as I see you baby
I might as well be living on the moon

Going solo to a show
Being one at a table for two
If I have to do this love thing without you
I might as well be living on the moon

For as much as I see you baby
I might as well be living on the moon

A few more miles wouldn't make any difference
The world would just keep spinning
And I'd still be waiting on you
And every other thing you put me through

For as much as I see you baby
I might as well be living on the moon
I might as well be living on the moon
