I've been standing on this mountain
I've been standing on my own
Never thought that I would get here
It just takes walking out the door

I went driving down these dark roads
And I got lost looking for the shore
When I got the scary feeling
That I've been here before

Used to want everything
I thought I could have that and more
We're not old, but I can't help it
I don't expect much anymore

There's a cold wind blowing from the north
Now emptiness has come back for more
Now I am quite certain
That I've been here before
