Woo

She said "is anything wrong?"

And I tried to look away

She said I think we should

Put it down where secrets lay

I think we finally know

That this won't fill the space

It's over, it's nothing, it's now

The heaviest silence erased, hey hey

If you love me fucking let me go.

I will begin to turn it around

Try to start again and watch it come down

I will begin to turn it around

Try to start again and watch it come down

Come down

Woo

Come down

She said "I'll take you home"

I packed up my things

I knew I couldn't handle the words

And the deep regret they bring

I think we finally know

That this won't fill the space

It's over it's nothing it's now

It was more than we could face, hey hey.

If you love me fucking let me go.

I will begin to turn it around

Try to start again and watch it come down

I will begin to turn it around

Try to start again and watch it come down

Come down

Come

Woo

Come down

Come down

Start again
Start again
Start again

Why do I find myself here again you disappeared
With no last words I tried to keep you near.
But like he who stood before the open sea,
You rose your god damn hands and fucking parted me.
But I can start again.
I can try again.
I can always break but I can never bend.
You could lie again
Never to find again.
It was your mistake but I will start again

I will begin to turn it around
Try to start again and watch it come down
I will begin to turn it around
Try to start again and watch it come down
I... I... I...
Will start again

Woo
Come down.
