

Jump, Little Children "Someone's In The Kitchen"

Visit "Someone's In The Kitchen" on MotoLyrics.com

I spent Sunday afternoon just hanging around
Hanging by my nails two miles up and falling down
Checking out the weather
With my strung out feathers
Holding up a singer
By my good luck finger.

Oh, I'm hanging on
Come back tomorrow to see if I'm gone
Oh, I'm hanging on
Come back tomorrow to see if I'm gone

I missed the train by a second or two Screaming through my fist, screaming out, "please love me do"
Hanging with a Haitian
At the ticket station
Talking about money
How it sure is funny.

Oh, I'm hanging out
If ever you need me just give me a shout
Oh, I'm hanging out
If ever you need me just give me a shout.

Woke up this morning, my guitar was on fire
Smoke it up jimi, I thought that you had long retired
Charcoal smoke and red hot ember
Smell like Christmas in September.

Oh, I'm waking up
The sugar plum fairy's in my coffee cup
Oh, I'm waking up
The sugar plum fairy's in my coffee cup.

Oh, someone's in the kitchen
Oh, smells like supertime
Oh, someone's in the kitchen
And they're popping a bottle of wine.

I got a letter from a long lost sis
Jumping in the lily, jumping in the sunshine kiss

"I'm dying and I'm dying on a hospital bed Come, come kiss me just before I'm dead."

Oh, long ago
Someone figured that I would just know
Oh, long ago
Someone figured that I would just know.

I caught a ferry across the lonely bay and I bussed up to Boston and I bought a ticket just one way
I jumped upon a plane
A coal-black stallion
I crossed the finish line and I grabbed the medallion.

Oh, I'm finally home
Promise me that you won't go
Oh, I'm finally home
Promise me that you won't go.

Oh, someone's in the kitchen
Oh, smells like supertime
Oh, someone's in the kitchen
And they're popping a bottle of wine.

Oh, I'm finally home
Promise me that you won't go
Oh, I'm finally home
Promise me that you won't go.

Oh, someone's in the kitchen
Oh, smells like supertime
Oh, someone's in the kitchen
And they're popping a bottle of wine.

Oh, someone's in the kitchen
Oh, smells like supertime
Oh, someone's in the kitchen
And they're popping a bottle of wine.

Visit Jump, Little Children page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.